GILES'

LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA.

A MESSAGE TO THE SUFFERING.

When a remedy is productive of such relief as to excel all other remedies in its curative results, it is a duty to make it known as generally as possible. This consideration has actuated the proprietor, WM. M. GILES, to bring before the public his LINIMENT IODIDE AMMONIA.

The remarkable cures it has effected classes it as one of the most important and valuable remedies ever discovered for the cure and relief of pain in any form. It cures Neuralgia, Face Ache, Rheumatism, Gout, Frosted Feet, Chilblains, Sore Throat, Erysipelas, Bruises and Wounds of every nature, in which the effects of external applications are almost magical, and in which its internal administration is found to be most efficacious. Physicians prescribe it for their patients and accord it their unhesitating approval as an invaluable discovery.

THE LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA is an essential appointment in all well-regulated stables, and where large numbers of horses are provided for, and where there is a liability to the visitation of a class of epidemic diseases for which this preparation is a recognized remedy. No stable should be without it, for no stable can really be deemed safe that is not supplied with it.

We append a few of the many testimonials bearing testimony to the universal favor with which this medicine has been received by the public.

Testimonials.

GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA is a sure cure for ague in the breast, and removes all swellings and hard lumps. A NURSING MOTHER.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 7, 1874.

DR. GILES:—While on duty as fireman on engine 47, about ten miles from this city, on Shore Line Road, was accidentally thrown off against a rock, train under full head, about thirty-five miles an hour. Was very badly bruised. Your agent was on board. He furnished me with two bottles of LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA, from which I received the greatest possible benefit. In four days I was able to sit up, and am now ready to commence work. My agent brother also used the Liniment for rheumatism, which it cured. JOHN GAFFNEY.

BARNUM'S HIPPODROME.—We have never found anything equal to GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA. Bruises, wounds, stiffness, lameness, pains in the muscles, swellings immediately disappear. It is just what we long wanted, and we now use nothing else. In thirty years' experience in Europe and America, I have never met anything like it.

D. B. WOODS,

Veterinary Surgeon, Barnum's Hippodrome.

NEW YORK, June 1st.

MR. WM. M. GILES, Chemist. Sir—Your new discovery, LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA, surpasses anything for cuts, strains, lameness in the limbs or shoulders, &c., wind galls, and hard, bony swellings on the joints. It is truly marvelous.

Yours very truly, RALPH OGLE,

Veterinary Surgeon, 330 West 25th St.

BOSTON, July 19, 1874.

MR. W. M. GILES:—In the match between the Athletics of Philadelphia and the Boston Club, played July 13th, 1874, at Boston, I met an accident and dislocated my left knee cap. Your agent fortunately happened to be present. He instantly applied your Liniment, and with no relief. HARRY C. SHAFFER, Boston Base Ball Club.

BOSTON, Sept. 14, 1874.

MR. WILLIAM M. GILES, Chemist. Dear Sir—Your Agent, Mr. Guy S. Frazey, called on me early in July last to introduce your LINIMENT IODIDE OF AMMONIA. Being a skeptic in regard to the great variety of articles patent for the cure of all sorts of diseases, I had no faith in your lotion, but, after a long discussion with your agent, it occurred to me that I had a horse I was using in private that had a shoulder he was unsure of ... I would further say that, while using it for the above, the same horse started another lameness ... the Liniment was applied immediately, and the lameness disappeared.

BAYOLINE

QUININE HAIR TONIC.

Something which has long been needed.

Every day we hear of some case of paralysis, softening of the brain or some nervous disorder of the head resulting from the use of hair preparations containing lead, sulphur, bismuth, or other mineral substance equally poisonous. That the use of these preparations is always attended with danger is an undisputed fact, they are dyes, and should be used for dyeing the hair. What has long been needed in a preparation like Bayoline, which is not a restorer or dye, contains no lead, sulphur, bismuth, or any mineral substance whatever. It is a pure and harmless hair dressing, keeps the hair from falling out, promotes its growth, eradicates dandruff, cleanses the scalp, is not greasy or sticky, does not soil, and always leaves a sense of cleanliness and comfort attained by no other preparation, for its intended purposes, which never been equalled.

EXCITING TIMES IN THE HOUSE.

THE CONTROVERSY OVER THE NEW RULE.

As the proceedings in the House of Representatives on Tuesday were of a notable as well as important character, we give the following detailed report:

The house resumed its session at ten A. M.

Mr. Harris of Virginia moved to suspend the rules and pass a bill repealing so much of the act of February 14, 1871, granting pensions to soldiers of the war of 1812, as excludes persons from the benefits of the act for disloyalty to the government during the late rebellion. Rejected, as the previous question had not been seconded.

Mr. Butler of Massachusetts moved to suspend the rules so as to give the committee on rules leave to report forthwith changes or amendments to the rules, and providing that during the consideration of such report no dilatory motions whatever shall be entertained by the speaker.

Mr. Speer of Pennsylvania made a point of order that the same proposition in substance had been offered three times during today's session.

The speaker overruled the point of order saying the proposition had been changed each time.

Mr. Storm of Pennsylvania did not think the gentleman from Massachusetts should be recognized until the other gentlemen who had resolutions offer to got a chance. The gentleman from Massachusetts had been recognized by the speaker three times.

Mr. Randall of Pennsylvania—And always on the one subject.

Mr. Beck of Kentucky—Is it right to move that nobody but the gentleman from Massachusetts shall be recognized by the chair?

The Speaker—The chair thinks that remark is not, by any proceedings in the house, called for on the side to which the gentleman belongs. The Chair desires to repel the idea very publicly before the country, that the minority in the house does not have the amplest protection in its rights, and does not, in proportion to numbers, occupy twice the time that the majority does.

[Loud calls for "regular order" from the republican side of the house.]

Mr. Randall moved an adjournment. Rejected by yeas and nays.

Mr. Butler's motion was rejected—yeas 177, nays, 99—less than two-thirds in the affirmative. Great excitement prevailed during the vote. The only republican voting with the minority was still Mr. Sener of Virginia and his vote again defeated the motion.

Mr. Garfield of Ohio then moved to suspend the rules and adopt the following:

"Whenever a question is pending before the house, the speaker shall not entertain any motion of a dilatory character, except one motion to adjourn and one to fix the day to which the house shall adjourn, but the previous question on the engrossment and the third reading of any bill or joint resolution shall not be ordered during the first day of its consideration, unless three-fourths of the members present shall second the demand; provided, this rule shall not apply to house resolutions, and provided further, that it shall not apply to any proposition to appropriate the money, credit or other property of the United States, except the regular annual appropriation bills."

At the suggestion of Mr. Hale of Maine, Mr. Garfield modified the rule by changing the "three-fourths" to "two-thirds."

Messrs. Butler of Massachusetts and Cessna of Pennsylvania made an effort to have the proviso about the previous question struck out, but they were unable to do so.

Mr. Garfield's motion was rejected—yeas 153, nays 110, not two-thirds in the affirmative. The republicans voting "no" were Butler of Massachusetts, Butler of Tennessee, Cobb of North Carolina, Field, Fort, Hays, Hodges, Hynes, Lofland, Packham, Sheats, Smith of Louisiana, and Todd —13.

Mr. Kasson of Iowa moved to suspend the rules and allow the committee on rules to report now any new rule or change of rules that during its consideration the speaker shall entertain no dilatory motion, and that the discussion thereon be limited to one hour. Carried—yeas 181, nays 86.

Mr Garfield thereupon, from the committee on rules, reported the rule he had previously offered.

The rule having been read, Mr. Cox of New York, a member of the committee on rules, made the point of order that the committee had had no meeting since it was ordered to report.

The Speaker overruled the point.

Mr. Randall asked to have a rule read, which he regarded as bearing on the point, and the speaker not having assented to it, Randall said he would resign any now further connection with the committee on rules.

The speaker notified him that he was in order at a subsequent part of the proceedings, but was not now.

Mr. Cox said he would try and make a point in order, unless "the crackling of thorns under a pot" disturbed him.—[Laughter on the republican side.

Mr. Eldridge of Wisconsin insisted that a gentleman should not be sneered or laughed at when he was in good faith arguing a question of order.

Mr. Sypher of Louisiana—Who could help laughing at the gentleman from Wisconsin? Nobody!

Mr. Eldredge—The poisoned chalice will soon be placed to your own lips!

Mr. Cox—I have had the honor to serve on the committee on rules for many years, and during the war, and very few innovations on the rules have been allowed. We preserved them during all the temptations to change them—

The Speaker—The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. Cox—I am going to do so. The point is that I resign my position on the committee on rules.

The Speaker—That is not in order now. The gentleman may do that for dramatic effect, but he knows it is not in order.

Mr. Cox—I gave notice yesterday.

The Speaker [with some severity of manner]—Nothing more irrelevant could possibly be obtruded.

Mr. Lamar of Mississippi—How does the chair know that the gentleman from New York did it for dramatic effect?

The Speaker—Because the gentleman from New York knows it is absolutely out of order—absolutely." [Great excitement on the democratic side; calls for the regular order from the republican side.]

The Speaker—The chair is willing, to the utmost verge of liberality, to hear all points of order, but he is not willing to have the proceedings interrupted by irrelevant remarks.

Mr. Lamar—How does the chair know the gentleman from New York knew he was out of order?

The Speaker—Because the chair is very well acquainted with the large experience and great intelligence of the gentleman from New York.

Mr. Lamar—The chair had no right to assume any such thing.

The Speaker—Possibly not, but when the chair is accused of deciding unjustly and trampling on the rights of the minority the chair may be pardoned for commenting with some freedom.

Mr. Cox—I made no charge against the chair, and the chair has no right to make that point on me!

The Speaker—The chair has not, in the remotest degree referred to the gentleman from Mississippi [Lamar], from whom he had received nothing but respect; but the chair cannot believe that any gentleman so thoroughly conversant with the rules as the gentlemen from Pennsylvania and New York [Messrs. Randall and Cox] could possibly suppose that while the house is acting under a suspension of the rules, a proposition to put in their resignation could be in order.

Mr. Randall—I say, sir, that you have no right, in any particular, to question my motives or reflect upon them. I stand here, in every respect, as your peer.

The Speaker—The chair cannot believe, unless he will so state to the house, that the gentleman from Pennsylvania considers it in order to offer his resignation.

Mr. Randall—You have ruled my resolution out of order.

The Speaker—Does the gentleman believe that it was in order?

Mr. Randall—I did when I offered it—You have voted it out and therefore I cannot offer it now, but I shall avail myself of the first opportunity to do it.

Mr. Garfield explained at some length the object and effect of the rule. In the course of his remarks he said he had never known the minority, when it filibustered to prevent the cutting off of debate, to fail in getting a hearing.

Mr. Eldredge—I have known it very often.

Mr. Garfield—On that score I have many a time approved the action of the democracy in demanding chances for debate—Now, as far as I am concerned, and I believe I speak for the committee on rules, or at least for two-thirds of that committee, I am willing to make any law now for the remainder of this session, which I would not be willing to be the rule of the house next session, when this side of the house passes over into the minority. Gentlemen have spoken here about the poisoned chalice being commended to our lips, we have deliberately framed this rule so that it may be commended to our lips at the next session. For one, I hope the day will never come when I will be willing to join in a movement to say that this great deliberative body of the nation shall not deliberate. I hope the day will never come when party zeal shall so influence me, when partisan spirit shall so misguide me as that I shall say, although I am but one of one-fifth, that the four-fifths shall not consider the great matters of legislation which they believe to be vitally important to the nation.

Mr. Speer of Pennsylvania—Would not all the bills referring claims to the court of claims, such as the Chorpenning bill, be included under this rule and have the benefit of it?

The Speaker—By no possibility can that class of bills ever have the benefit of this rule.

Mr. Speer—I would be glad to have the speaker state why.

The Speaker—Simply because these bills now must go under the rule to the committee of the whole. At all events, the chair gives assurance to the gentleman from Pennsylvania that they will never have the benefit of this rule during this session.

Mr. Hale of Maine moved to amend the rule by requiring the previous question to be seconded by only two-thirds instead of three-fourths.

Mr. Kasson of Iowa moved an amendment providing that the rule shall not be enforced on the first day of the consideration of a question.

Mr. Wilson of Indiana moved to amend also, by providing that the new rule shall not apply to any proposition to refer any claim to the court of claims.

Mr. Kasson accepted Mr. Wilson's proposition and incorporated it in his own.

Mr. Cessna of Pennsylvania offered to amend further by giving the judiciary committee power to report bills on the public character on Thursdays.

Mr. Beck of Kentucky spoke at some length against the effort now being made to break down all rules in order to throw into the house the hydra-headed, the civil rights bill, which had been rejected by the people at the polls last November. In conclusion he called for the reading of the first page of Barclay's digest, in which the remark of a distinguished English parliamentarian is quoted in favor of guarding the rights of the minority.

Mr. Butler of Massachusetts—That is an excellently good doctrine under a kingly government; but it does not apply to a power in the hands of an aristocracy or under a vote of the people, and no legislative body in the world has ever been cursed with the rules with which this house has been cursed. Where did these rules come from? They are relics of the old slave power. [Sneering laughter from the democratic side.] They were made to protect that power in order to prevent any discussion of slavery or abolition. I know whereof I affirm. They were made to throw the power of legislation into the hands of a few leading committees, so that no legislation could be introduced and nothing discussed which was not in accordance with the views of that power. I agree that the rule submitted by the committee would be a good one, if it was the first Monday in December 1875, but what are we doing? We are making a change of rules for an exigency. We have but 20 more legislative days left, and we have got nine appropriation bills to consider. We have not heard yet from the committee of ways and means in regard to taxes and the raising of revenue. We are now here in this exigency, with the country almost breaking into civil war, with white leagues all over the South, with one State disorganized and held by bayonets alone, and yet this rule offers to give half the remaining time of this house to filibustering. He besought the majority not to allow any filibustering under any form of the rules.

Mr. Tremain of New York—Is it not necessarily in order to legislate upon any southern question that the amendment offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Cessna] shall be passed?

Mr. Butler—Clearly, and therefore I was going to ask the house to consider that amendment so that the house can pass a bill by which the President can be clothed with power to preserve the peace of the country as long as he remains in the chair.

Mr. Tremain—And does not this whole contest lose its significance if we do not adopt the amendment?

Mr. Butler—Clearly it does, for we have no way of getting these bills before the house. I pray you, good and true men who stand for the country, to stand together and release our hands, which have been tied up so that we could not do anything for the benefit of the country, and that we adopt a rule which shall not be emasculated as the one reported is.

Mr. Tremain—Is there any way to do that unless by voting down the previous question?

Mr. Butler—There is no other way. Let us vote it down, and then each one of the amendments offered will come up and be voted on, and the majority of this house can do what it ought to do; that is, pass such a rule as will enable us to carry forward the public business at the will of the majority.

Mr. Cox, in replying to Mr. Butler, claimed that his side of the house represented to-day two-thirds of the intelligence and voting power of the country. Because it happened to propose my retirement from the committee on rules, I was told that I was doing it for dramatic effect, and yet the gentleman from Massachusetts [Butler] can go to the clerk's desk and speak to the lazzaroni in the galleries and be cheered, as he had been time and again. The gentleman says, perhaps for dramatic effect, that the rules, and I suppose the Constitution itself, were made by the slave power.

Mr. Butler—By no means.

Mr. Cox—They were administered at least in Charleston, by the slave power, with the help of Caleb Cushing and another respectable Massachusetts gentleman. [Laughter.] The parliamentary rules were adopted as a guard against encroachments of the crown, and the corruptions of power, and are now dropping into a little minority Congress. You are unwise enough for the sake of a temporary advantage on this civil rights bill, to take down all those safeguards which would prevent the quack-rules and extravagancies belonging to legislation. I have stood steadily against all innovations on the rules. I regret that the day of innovations has come, but the day of democratic jubilee has also come, and you, Mr. Speaker, you would not have been here next Congress, if you had not been elected early in the spring. [Laughter.] I said that for dramatic effect. [Laughter.]

Mr. Scofield, of Pennsylvania, denied that the purpose of the framing of the present rule was to protect the minority. The right to move to adjourn and the right to move to adjourn to a day certain was absolutely necessary, but the construction had grown up to give one-fifth of the House a right to stop all proceedings. It had never been intended to give such power to one-fifth of the members of the House, and all that was now proposed was to cut off that abuse. The Committee on rules had been extremely cautious, and had preserved that right on any measure that involved a subsidy.

Mr. Lamar, of Mississippi opposed the new rule, and said that the existing rule had been adopted to prevent harsh and precipitate action by the majority. It was an old rule, constituting a part of the checks and balances of the system. The gentleman from Massachusetts [Butler] had sneeringly remarked that it was the slave power which had adopted it, but it had the sanction of the anti-slavery power for the last twelve years, and had been recognized and invoked by that power, and now sought to be contravened for the first time. I hope that the poisoned chalice will not be commended to your own lips. I hope that when the democratic party comes into power in this House it will reinstate this ancient and highly moral rule, and observe its stipulations as exact as it has always observed the compromises of the Constitution. [Applause on the democratic side.] I do not want this power exercised except in accordance with the usages of this parliamentary body. Here is this civil rights bill, which I believe has not really the support of the majority of the members in this House, but a body of resolute men, men of more will than the passive majority are determined to drive it through. When that rule was adopted nearly all the States in the Union constituted the slave power. But let us admit that slave power did originate it. Let it go forth to the world that where those men, whom the gentleman from Massachusetts denominates the slave power, has the unquestioned ascendency in this government, and had the power to carry their measures over minorities, and regardless of the rights of minorities, they voluntarily put a restraint upon their own action and gave the minority the right to protect themselves against all oppressive measures. [Applause on the democratic side.]

The Speaker [Blaine] came down on the floor and advocated the rule reported by Mr. Garfield. He did not think that the gentleman from Mississippi has correctly stated the history of the rule, or the proceedings that had been had under it. The rule which developed a motion to adjourn to a fixed day above the simple motion to adjourn, had not been incorporated into the rules for fifty years after the government was organized, and unless he was entirely mistaken, the use of it for what is now known as filibustering never took place until 1854, when it was resorted to on the Kansas-Nebraska bill by the minority to defeat what had gone into history as a parliamentary fraud, by which in committee of the whole the enacting clause was struck out of a bill, and the bill on being reported to the House was then considered. That had gone into history as a parliamentary fraud, and against that the minority had called the yeas and nays 138 times. That, if he mistook not, was the origin of filibustering.

Mr. Lamar—Then I must say it has a paternity I was not aware of.

Mr. Blaine—I think I have stated the history of the rule correctly. I do not wish to reflect on the memory of the dead or to bring up any unpleasant remembrances to the living, and I would not have made this slight reference to the matter, but for the claim of the gentleman from Mississippi which I have ventured to correct. I came to the floor, however, to oppose the proposition of the gentleman from Massachusetts, [Butler] who objects to that portion of the proposed rule which gives the minority one day's debate, and he proposes that the majority of the House shall, without any delay whatever, without any opportunity for a word of protest, without any opportunity for an amendment, without debate, without explanation, without consideration, force down the throats of the minority any measure that the majority may agree upon. For one, I am opposed to that, and for one, I desire to say that I would never consent while I am in a majority, to support a rule or to report a rule from the committee of which I am chairman, which I would not be equally willing to live under as the minority. I believe this process of filibustering is wholly and entirely wrong, and I believe, moreover, that its growth came probably from the fact of too rash a use of the previous question on important measures. In the ancient debates in this house, 40, 50 or 60 years ago, the previous question was used sparingly. Deliberation was allowed. This proposed rule secures to the minority one day debate on any measure. It is indicative of liberalism and of the rights of debate. There is one other point on which I desire to make a remark. It is proposed by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Cessna] to change the rules so as to enable the judiciary committee to report at any time, and the gentleman [Butler] advocates it because of the peculiar exigencies of this session. The gentleman does not ground it upon the general rule of necessity, but thinks we ought to have it now. I do not see what necessity there is for it now because the committees appointed on affairs in Mississippi, in Alabama and Louisiana have a right to report at any time.

Mr. Randall opposed, and Mr. Williams of Wisconsin advocated the new rule, and expressed the belief that the people of the country would sustain the house in doing so.

The debate was closed, and the house proceeded to vote.

Mr. Kasson's amendment was rejected without the yeas and nays, and Mr. Hale's amendment, requiring the previous question to be seconded by two-thirds, not three-fourths, was adopted—yeas, 158; nays, 93. Mr. Cessna's amendment was not admitted. The rule as amended was adopted—yeas, 171; nays, 85, Sener still voting with the minority.

The rule as amended reads as follows:—

"Whenever a question is pending before the house, the speaker shall not entertain any motion of a dilatory character, except one motion to adjourn and one motion to fix the day to which the house shall adjourn, but the previous question on the engrossment and third reading of any bill or joint resolution shall not be ordered during the first day of its consideration unless two-thirds of the members present shall second the demand; provided, that this rule shall not apply to house resolutions offered in the morning hour of Monday; and provided, further, that it shall not apply to any proposition to appropriate the money, the credit or other property of the United States, except the regular annual appropriation bills."

The speaker remarked that, although a simple majority was enough for the adoption of the rule, it had received two-thirds majority.

Messrs. Randall and Cox then insisted on resigning their places on the committee on rules, and after some discussion their resignations were accepted.

On motion of Mr. Butler of Massachusetts the rules were suspended, and the bill passed appropriating $9000 for the expenses of the select committee on Louisiana.

The speaker presented a message from the President vetoing a bill for the relief of Alexander Burch, a deserter from the army, ordering his name to be restored to the rolls. Referred to the committee on military affairs.

Mr. Butler of Massachusetts moved to go to the business on the speaker's table, to take up the senate civil rights bill.

Mr. Ward of New Jersey moved to suspend the rules and pass a bill giving the heirs of soldiers killed in battle, who had enlisted for less than one year, the same bounties as if they had enlisted for four years.

Without action on either of these motions the house, at 1 o'clock, adjourned.

We can apply this term in its fullest sense to the result of the extraordinary contest for the adoption of the new rule of the House of Representatives. A SCENE IN THE HOUSE.

... Speaker Blaine's presence of mind and parliamentary experience enabled him to calm the troubled waters ... the words spoken by McLean and Butler be taken down ... When time enough had elapsed to cool angry passions, the words complained of were read. Mr McLean's language, based on a misconstruction of what Gen Butler had said, was ruled out of order.

The House then resumed consideration of the Civil Rights Bill, but Gen Butler could not ... telling Mr McLean and all who sympathized with him that he (Butler) was proud of having hung a traitor in the streets of New Orleans and only regretted that he could not have hung more of them. The Speaker was obliged of course to rule this language out of order, but it was ... the closing rebuke of the interruption.

The New English Liberal Leader. The Right Honorable Spencer Compton Cavendish, commonly called the Marquis of Hartington, which title he holds simply by courtesy as being the oldest son of a Duke, was on Wednesday chosen leader of the Opposition in the British Parliament in place of Mr Gladstone, who has retired from that position. The new leader is a man 42 years of age, possessed of ability and character of a fair speaker, a man qualified for business and popular withal. In person he is tall, rather sullen-looking, and neither thin nor stout, though rather more the former than the latter. He is a good fox hunter, which is a commendable quality in England. In manner he is very straightforward, and though given to a good habit of never talking when he can avoid it, hits the bull's-eye of every question he finds it necessary to talk about. He rarely smiles. His voice is very loud, and only the deaf can be within reasonable distance of him and not hear what he says. That he will prove a good if not a brilliant leader is more than probable. The worst thing against him is something he can't help—namely, the fact that he is likely at any time to become a peer by the death of his father, the Duke of Devonshire, who is now 66 years old. In that event the Liberals will be under the necessity of looking about them for another leader.

Railroad Legislation

A bill was reported giving authority to the Portland & Ogdensburg Railroad and [illegible] to be secured by mortgage. Also [illegible] the charter of the Portland & Rochester road three years from the 1st of next February, and authority to take land in Portland for depot purposes, also giving five years to the Georges Valley Railroad to locate and complete their road.

Oldtown Water Power Co

A bill was reported giving the Oldtown Water Power Co. five years to commence [illegible].

A bill was reported increasing the capital [illegible] Lime Co. of Rockland, to $60,000.

The Transportation of Liquors

Mr. Wheelwright from the Committee on Temperance reported a bill an act additional to chap. 27 of R. S. It provides that no person shall bring into the State, or knowingly transport from place to place intoxicating liquors for unlawful [illegible] penalty of $50 for every offence. It also provides for the seizure of such liquors during transit and [illegible] against the parties in the same manner as if they were unlawfully kept for sale.

Compensation of State Prison Officials

An order of inquiry was referred looking to establishing the number and salaries [illegible] all the officers and employees connected with the State Prison.

Contested Elections

The Knox County Claim

The resolve in favor of reimbursing Knox county to the amount of $3,894.90 [illegible] incurred in the trial of Robbins for the crime of murder, came up in the Senate, when its passage was opposed by Mr. Savage of Oxford and favored by Messrs. Haskell of Cumberland and Emery of Hancock. Mr. Emery contended that justice and the duty required by individual faith made it incumbent on the State to pay the expenses of the trial. The resolve was given a passage.

The Judiciary Committee after long consideration, to-day voted to report a bill to enforce the collection of taxes assessed in 1874 upon railroads, the proceeding to be by warrant of distress issued by the State Treasurer, upon the property and franchises of the roads, the roads to have the right of replevin of such property. The bill also gives the right to [illegible] to bring the matter into the courts so that the legality of the means by which the taxes was assessed may be tested. This is substantially what the delinquent roads asked. The interests of the State are carefully guarded by the bill. Also a bill simplifying the proceedings in disclosure for relief of poor debtors.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

FORTY-THIRD CONGRESS—Second Session.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.

Senate.

It was agreed to occupy till 2 o'clock for consideration of bills from the Committee on Claims.

Mr. Washburn, from the Committee on Claims, reported adversely on the bill to pay certain persons and corporations for losses sustained by the so-called St. Albans raid, on the 19th of October, 1864, and it was indefinitely postponed. At the expiration of the morning hour, the Committee on Claims were called, and a number of bills reported by that Committee of a private character was passed.

Mr. Anthony, of Rhode Island, from the Committee on Printing, reported favorably on the resolution to print the statement of the Court of Claims in regard to judgments rendered and the annual report of the Commissioner of Patents, which was adopted.

A number of bills from the Committee on Claims were passed, including the Senate bill for the relief of Peasley and McClary, of Nashua, N. H., and the House bill for the relief of N. M. Dunphy, of Massachusetts.

Mr. Logan, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported back the House bill to provide for the relief of persons suffering from the ravages of grasshoppers. Passed.

On motion of Mr. Morton the Senate proceeded to the consideration of the concurrent resolution to repeal the twenty-second joint rule, and he modified the resolution for its repeal so as to provide that no case to go into the cabin. The sloop has her sails torn until anchor and rudder [illegible] the rule shall read; "No objection to the [illegible]"

NEW JERSEY.

A Mystery—Is it Charlie Ross?

BARNEGAT, Feb. 4. The sloop James Nelson, at Barnegat inlet, has a man, woman and three children on board. One of the children is a boy about four years old, dressed in girl's clothing, has hazel eyes, light curly hair and in every respect resembles the missing Charlie Ross. The family have been telegraphed for. The man gives his name as E. Savory, from New Bedford, Mass., and says he is bound for Florida. He is a civil engineer and was last employed by the Old Colony railroad. He acts very suspiciously, permits no case to go into the cabin. The sloop has her sails torn until anchor and rudder [illegible].

LOUISIANA.

Shreveport Witnesses.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4. Several witnesses from Shreveport appeared before the Congressional Committee to-day, but the testimony developed nothing important. All said the feeling of residents was owing to the General Government, that the election was quiet and fairly conducted [illegible] the ill feeling toward most of the Republican officials is owing to their corruption, that negroes and employers are friendly, that some [illegible] voted the Conservative ticket, and that there is no White League organization in Shreveport.

A Democrat's View.

P. H. Marr, Chairman of the Democratic Committee in the late canvass, testified that there was a perfectly fair election throughout the State, there was no strict color line, many colored men were put on the Conservative ticket, and conservative colored votes. Compromise tickets were seen in a dozen parishes. Colored men were put in place of white men, whereas it united opposition tickets, not one-tenth of the thinking people believe the present Government otherwise than illegal, imposed against their will after every desperate resort by the General Government. Witness never sent any such despatches as had been sworn to on the other side. Witness will die in the belief that it is the right of the people in a Republican government to put down, by usurpation with a strong hand, even if they have to appeal to arms. He firmly believed the whites had no disposition to take away from the negro any of his rights.

MASSACHUSETTS.

The Poor "Boss."

NEW YORK, Feb. 4. Thomas Burke, recently a convict at Blackwell's Island, has furnished a correspondent of the Herald with a circumstantial account of how Tweed is cared for there, showing that he has the best of everything and intimating that the warden and all the other officials are bribed in one way or another to minister to his comfort and provide him with luxuries.

Freights East and West

After the adjournment of the Railroad Conference last evening the general freight agents of the eastern trunk lines met to [illegible] consultation as to the rates to be adopted, and agreed to leave them at the dollar basis adopted January 20, for west-bound freight. The western agents will be informed by telegraph of the action of the meeting, and requested to establish without delay their tariff on east bound freight.

OBITUARY. A Kingman correspondent writes that, on yesterday forenoon, Charles S. Shaw, a well known citizen of that town, died after a brief illness. He was in charge of F. Shaw & Brothers extensive tannery works, which position he had filled since their establishment. He has satisfactorily filled several town offices, was a young man of ability, was universally respected, and leaves a large number of friends to mourn his loss.

SUDDEN DEATH. The meeting of the division of Sons of Temperance was sadly interfered with last evening. Mrs. Luther Cutter, a member of the order, who left her home in usual health, on reaching Temperance Hall, suddenly and without warning dropped dead. Mrs. Cutter was about forty-five years of age and an active worker in the temperance cause. Heart disease was the cause of her death. The remains were immediately taken to her late residence on Grove street.

"CAMP-FIRE." On last evening the members of the Beale Post, G. A. R. held a pleasant reunion in their hall, at which they were happily surprised by the appearance of a squad of ladies who brought their welcome in the shape of substantial eatables that gave evidence of a successful foraging expedition. After proper attention had been paid to the attractions of the table, the remaining time was devoted to short speeches and recitations, including Boker's "Black Regiment," given in a spirited manner by Captain Small.

THE LATE HON. S. F. HERSEY. It is understood that the funeral of the late Hon. Samuel F. Hersey will be deferred till the first of next week in order to allow time for the arrival of a son of the deceased who is living in Minnesota. A post mortem examination of the body was made yesterday forenoon by Drs. Sanger, Blaisdell, Simmons and Morrison, which showed that death was caused by disease of the liver. Four large gall-stones were discovered, one of these being in the duct at the time. The lungs, heart and other organs were in a perfectly sound condition.

STORE BURNED AT EASTON, AROOSTOOK COUNTY. A note from the editor of the Presque Isle North Star informs us that, on Saturday night, Jan. 30, the store owned and occupied by C. H. Tibbetts of Easton, was burned, together with about $10,000 worth of goods, 300 bushels of grain, and a [illegible] set of carpenter's tools valued at $170. Mr. Tibbetts succeeded in saving about $700 worth of the goods. The fire originated in the chamber of the store, but in what way is not known. An application for insurance had been made a short time previous but the policy had not been received. This is a severe loss to Mr. Tibbetts who had been in trade but a few months and he justly receives the sympathy of his numerous friends.

THE RIVAL FIRE EXTINGUISHERS. According to announcement in the WHIG AND COURIER, on yesterday forenoon the agents of the Babcock fire extinguisher and the "Little Giant" gave a free show in West Market square. The friends of both, and a crowd of citizens were in attendance and their exhibitions were productive of a good deal of enthusiasm. While such exhibitions are interesting to the crowd [illegible] the advantages of showing the real service of either [illegible].

Happiness has found me out—
Found me out at last!
Oh, she a—ogged me round about
All my hurrying life she chased me,
Treading hard and but she a faced me
Almost touched me, all but faced me—
Here she is at last!

Wary were you, Happiness!
Patient to the last!
From your thankless business
Laggard Time has come to free you
Always driven by Fate to flee you
Never did I think to see you
Track me down at last!

"DOUBTLESS THE

Best Cough Medicine

IN THE WORLD."

(From one of the Oldest and very best Houses in America.)

Messrs. CUTLER BROS. & CO.
CINCINNATI, Ohio, March 13, 1873.
Please send us 1 gross small and Five gross large "Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam." This is doubtless the best Cough Medicine in the World. (Signed), ALLEN & CO.
P. S.—These parties have sold this Balsam for over thirty years.

[From one of Boston's most estimable citizens.]
No. 6 Worcester Sq., BOSTON, March 14, 1873.
Messrs. CUTLER BROS. & CO.
In ordering another small lot of your Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam,
I should like to tell you what I know about it, in order that others may have the benefit of my EXPERIENCE.

Since the Balsam first came to my notice in 1848 I have kept it constantly in the house, never allowing myself to be out of it over night. In all that it has not failed in a single instance in my own case to give the desired relief, and I will say the same in regard to my mother, whose by it, as I cannot but think. Hers was a case of Congestion of the Lungs, and although attended by a very skillful physician, she seemed to fail constantly, so that we despaired of her recovery, when an old friend and neighbor persuaded her to try this Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam. The result was most gratifying, I assure you.

RELIEF WAS IMMEDIATE

and recovery rapid. She is now over 70 years old, and is active and well. Whenever she gets a severe cold, which happens once in a while, she takes thirty or forty drops according to the violence of those ugly coughs always visiting her by day or two by taking the Balsam only on retiring at night. With it the

is at once subdued, and a good night's sleep secured. I will mention another case that of a young lady acquaintance, who in a very bad condition, but eight months ago I was fortunately reduced. She left Boston for the country some 150 miles away, as we supposed to die. I sent her a bottle of your Balsam, and I soon had the satisfaction to hear that she was much better. She continued taking it for a while and got and is living now, which fact is to be credited to the use of the VEGETABLE PULMONARY BALSAM. Very truly yours,

JOHN CAPEN.

Ask for it and in buying be careful to get the genuine. Price in large bottles, which contain nearly three times the quantity of the small, $1.00; small bottles, old style, 50 cents.

What is That?

It is the science and art of proving the probable length of life of a person—deducing it from his Ancestry, Constitution, Physique in size, form, color, and the constitution of the various parts being thoroughly in Inheritance, Habits, Health ... Intelligence, the Instincts, Health ... and what ever else, if discoverable, which can affect the potentialities of life.

"NATURAL PREMIUMS."

What is That?

It is a plan to secure to a family, in case of the decease of the Head, the income during the period of his productive labor, an income corresponding to the yearly as the ... of that labor.
"Natural Premiums" is the true plan of pay ... yearly as you go," and put nothing into a company which both on account of cost and security may better be kept by the insured.

The two Scientific Insurance ... only by the COMPANY.

The idea of GRADING AND RATING Life Risks cannot be applied by any other company already started, since if it should adopt the method of grading the best risks now insured in it would of course drop their present policies to take out better ones to wit, at the lower premiums to which they are entitled, but the inferior risks would stay, and pay the premiums so much less than they ought to be for them.
The idea of Term-Life "Natural Premiums" is not applied by the other companies because as they say they would not, on their "average" plan of taking all insured persons at the same premiums, get enough to cover the expense of their numerous losses.
Hence, all other companies "make faces" at the American Popular, and "call names," about which it does not care a fig, if it can only, as it does, secure the approbation of the scientific and thoughtful, and the patronage of the probably long lived.

LETTER CARRIERS.

All letters are delivered free by carriers when addressed to street and number. People should inform their correspondents of above and have their letters addressed accordingly.
Persons leaving their address at the General Delivery can also have their letters sent, but it is much more convenient to have the street and number on, and they will be delivered earlier than if the name is put on at the office. Carriers make two deliveries daily, the second trip supplying the extremities of their routes.
Collections are made morning and evening from all important mails—the down town boxes fifteen and the up town boxes thirty minutes before closing mails at the office.
Holidays and Sundays the Carriers Window will be open for the delivery of letters from 8½ to 9½ A. M. and evenings from 8½ to 9 P. M.
Any irregularities of the Carriers Department should be reported to the office.

ENVELOPES.

An additional charge will be made for printing the return request to return across the end and upper corner of the envelopes furnished by the Post Office Department (samples of which may be seen at the Cashier's window) when ordered in lots of not less than 500.
A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within thirty days, or less, written or printed, with the writer's name, post office and State, across the left hand end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with.
The public are earnestly recommended to procure stamped envelopes with printed return request, as the expense is less, and letters thus endorsed, if not delivered to the person addressed, are returned to the writer free of charge.
Fine class envelopes of all sizes furnished at $32.50 per thousand.

Stamps cut from stamped envelopes cannot be used to prepay postage. The use of such stamps is punishable by a fine of fifty dollars. Stamped envelopes spoiled in directing are redeemed at their value.
